

A Religious Response to Global Warming

California Interfaith Power & Light is a statewide multifaith organization helping congregations and individuals respond to the climate crisis as a moral issue. The mission of CIPL is to be faithful stewards of creation by responding to global warming through the promotion of energy conservation, energy efficiency, and renewable energy.

Locate CIPL programs, access resources, learn about climate issues in the elections, and join tens of thousands of Californians committed to responding to climate change as a moral issue here:
